'We ain't just about singing the Blues!'

— say residents after recent TV karaoke show

A BARRY councillor has said he is "deeply upset" at how the town was portrayed in a recent national television programme, writes TIM CHAPMAN.

Channel 4 billed 'Karaoke Nights' shown just before Christmas as "a portrait of a town through song" that "takes a look at the thriving karaoke scene in Barry".

It insisted the programme was a fair reflection of the local karaoke scene and was broadcast at an appropriate time.

But Coun Richard Bertin, who represents the Court ward, took exception to its portrayal of the local pub scene.

"Barry is not at all like the negative side shown on the TV programme."

"It created a false image of the town just for the programme and a true picture of the town now needs to be shown."

"I am writing to producers to express my anger and concern of the bad portrayal of Barry."

One reader told The GEM he thought the programme gave the impression that Barry was a "dead end town" with drunk people who used bad language.

Another GEM reader, who did not want to be identified, commented: "What a sad portrayal of Barry! I watched Channels 4's 'Karaoke Nights' on the Monday before Christmas: the programme was first broadcast late on Thursday, December 19."

"The 4OD recording was 47 minutes long but I could only bear to watch 22 minutes. I sent several complaints to Channel 4."

The reader said it appeared scenes were fuelled by alcohol and — perhaps — the presence of the television crew.

The reader added: "Despite one particular statement in the film, I have pointed out to Channel 4, we do not have 'no-go' situations in Barry!"

"The recording did not seem to be about karaoke. It was more about sensationalising behaviour, nudity, and stigmatising our town."

The makers claim Karaoke

Nights is an emotionally uplifting and heart-warming documentary about people who are dealing with some of life's most difficult challenges, through the "healing power of song".

Filming took place in and around some of the town's pubs.

Trevor Harris, landlord of the Master Mariner, which was featured, told The GEM: "The karaoke part wasn't a problem, but there was a lot of swearing and some people will be cringing at what they said."

Some Barry residents took to Facebook to discuss the rights and wrongs of the programme.

The programme is no longer available to view at Channel 4's '4OD' on-line catch up service.

The GEM asked Channel 4 whether it would like to respond to the points made by Coun Bertin and GEM readers.

A Channel 4 spokesperson commented: "The programme offered a fair portrayal of the thriving late night karaoke scene in Barry and was aired in a suitable post-water-sled slot".

All Saints was full of the festive cheer this Christmas. See page 22 for more pictures and a full report.

Barry man (18) jailed for three violent attacks in three days

A YOUNG MAN who went on a three-day rampage of violence in Barry, has been put behind bars for four years, nine months.

After one attack, the victim was lucky not to lose the sight of an eye, said Judge Neil Bidder QC at Cardiff Crown Court.

He told Jonathan Draper (18): "You are a violent and bad-tempered young man. You are also very dangerous, capable of unprovoked violence."

Draper, who is from the Barry area and was homeless at the time, admitted charges of assault, inflicting grievous bodily harm, robbery, and having a bladed article.

Prosecutor Nicholas Gareth Jones said that on June 15, Draper

by AJ SICLUNA

called at the home of Philip Evans in Barry Road.

Mr Evans, who is in his 50s, was in his bedroom and Draper accused him of being responsible for causing the split with his girlfriend.

"He attacked him, threatened to kill him, punched him in the face, and struck him in the face with his elbow."

Draper told him: "Don't go to the police, don't grass me up or you'll have it."

Mr Jones said the victim's face was "a mess". He refused to go to the police, but the next day was in such pain that he went to the University Hospital of Wales.

He had bruising to his face and ears, cuts to the face and scalp, was bleeding inside an eye, had a broken nose, and a broken cheekbone.

He told medical staff he had fallen over.

The following day, Mr Evans and his partner were disturbed by the defendant, who said he wanted to apologise.

He appeared to be under the influence of drugs.

He left their flat and went on to rob David Brigham in Chesterfield Street, who was walking his dog.

Draper, who was with another person, kicked him in the face with a karate-style kick. He then went on to kick him twice.

His wallet and cash were taken. Later, Mr Brigham identified the defendant as being responsible.

CUTS: 'the blame really lies with the UK Government'

OVER the coming months and years up to the next general election, our Conservative MP will do his utmost to blame all the cuts in local services on either the local council or Welsh Government – in fact, anyone except his Tory/Lib-Dem Government at Westminster.

But it is a fact that this UK coalition Government has imposed massive spending cuts, which will have a long-term and devastating impact on council services – and the public will suffer as a result.

Read any local newspaper anywhere in Wales, Scotland, or England, and the headlines will all be the same – cuts to bus services; cuts to youth services; cuts to elderly services; potholes not getting filled; library services put at risk; job cuts; streets not getting cleaned; massive increase in food banks to help the poor; homelessness increases; pay frozen; arts and leisure budgets slashed – council tax increases to help fill the funding gaps!

Have no doubt that the responsibility for these savage cuts lie with the Conservative and Lib-Dem MPs in Parliament.

Rob Curtis, Barry
(Labour councillor, Vale Council)

Double yellow lines mean 'No waiting!'

WITH reference to the photograph of cars parked allegedly in The Butts, published in The GEM (Thursday, December 12), the Highway Code (Revised edition 2007) is very clear – at page 115, that where there are double yellow lines on the carriageway, as here, there can be no waiting at any time on the carriageway, pavement and verge.

Praise for council

SINCE moving house six months ago, I have been surprised and, at times, embarrassed by the amount of material that I have had to put out for recycling on a Monday morning.

Without exception, everything has been taken away by the cheerful team of collectors who service our area of Rhooose. So, to them, may I say a huge 'Thank you'.

Hugh Jupp,

Tinsel and turkey

FIFTY members of the ladies' section at West End Social Club, enjoyed a tinsel and turkey weekend to Morecambe.

This was followed by their Christmas party, where members received a tin of biscuits and a raffle prize.

A fantastic buffet was provided by Sheila, Gloria and Steve entertained. Cheques were sent to four charities – money raised by holding raffles, table sales and auctions.

We are looking forward to celebrating our 40th anniversary in March with a luncheon, and party night.

I would like to thank the committee and members for their support and wish them a happy and healthy 2014.

'Only in the UK do we cling to the idea that one language is sufficient'

Bilingualism is a sign of tolerance in modern Wales

I WAS intrigued by Eileen Bayley's recent letter in The GEM, regarding bilingual signs at Llandough Hospital.

I must confess to being saddened by her attitude and lack of empathy towards the Welsh language.

Why the language should arouse so much hatred and suspicion within Wales by certain individuals is beyond my comprehension.

I, for one, am proud of our language and heritage and see bilingual signs as a sign of our tolerance and inclusivity within a modern Wales.

Being bilingual is a gift, and I only wish I could speak another language at this present time.

There are so many advantages with regard to being bilingual – so let us look at evidence conducted around the world.

The cognitive functions are improved due to bilingualism.

M Leikin (2012) discovered that bilingualism has an additive effect on an individual's creativity by enhancing mental flexibility. This is so with regard to mathematical problem-solving – you become smarter as your brain functionality is improved.

Colin Baker in his report 'Rapporteur Group on Bilingualism – with regard to the advantages of bilingualism in Welsh and English', noted that bilingualism promotes tolerance of other languages and cultures because "two languages gives someone a wider cultural experience, there is often a greater tolerance of differences in cultures, creeds and customs."

The majority of the world's population is able to speak more than one language. Only in the UK do we cling to the idea that one language is sufficient.

Can we, therefore, afford to be monolingual? No, I certainly don't believe so. Welsh is an indigenous language of the UK and should be further encouraged and allowed to blossom within Wales...

"But Welsh is a waste of time," I hear you decree – French, Spanish or Mandarin would be far more beneficial. Yes, I would agree with you – if you lived in the countries where those languages are spoken!

'People should pay to have forms in Welsh'

WITH reference to the GEM letter on December 12, I agree 100 per cent about Welsh road signs.

Throughout Wales, they probably cost millions which could be put to much better use in our hospitals and schools.

There is not a living Welsh person who doesn't speak English.

Make a start with road signs and then progress to duplicated official forms.

If it is wanted in Welsh, then people should pay a fee.

What a waste for some rather petty principle.

Gerry Parsons,
Barry.

What about the Foodbanks?

IT is good for democracy that our Member of Parliament is holding public meetings to seek the views of his constituents on issues such as bus services and house building.

Can I ask when he will be holding a public meeting to discuss any of the following: his Government's turning down of £22million of EU funding for Foodbanks; Ian Duncan Smith's refusal to hold a meeting with the Foodbank charity Trussell Trust; or his Government's refusal to publish its own report into the reasons behind the increased reliance on Foodbanks – any of which I would be glad to attend.

Bob Bowyer
(Labour party supporter).

The signs at Llandough Hospital were in both English and Welsh. If that caused you confusion, Eileen, then I suggest you don't venture outside the UK.

If you truly understood people's "need to maintain the culture of Wales", as you put it, you would not have written your letter in the first place.

With regard to the cost, well let us get things into perspective – the NHS spends over £3.5 billion on alcohol-related incidents alone in the UK.

JM Jones,
Barry.

Community group's 'thank you'

ON behalf of Friends and Neighbours, I would like to take the opportunity of thanking Barry Town Council and Vale of Glamorgan Council for their support during 2013 and also The Glamorgan GEM for all its help during the year with publicity and attending events.

Friends and Neighbours have grown immensely, and we now have a waiting list. Special thanks to Age Connect Cardiff and Vale for letting us use the Senior Health Shop in Holton Road, Barry, for our meetings.

Thanks also to Aberthaw Power Station, Renishaw, Western Power and Barry Rotary Club, who sponsored our Christmas party at Beryl Road Pioneer, which enabled us to give nearly 60 people a fantastic party.

I must thank the volunteers, Marlene, Gary, Andrea, Chris Gail, Jen, Eve, Joyce who give up their time to help with the group meetings and trips, lunches etc – without their help the group could not function.

A big thank you also to Jane Hutt AM and Alun Cairns MP, who have supported us throughout 2013 – and last, but not least, the members of Friends and Neighbours.

Gay Fified (Coordinator, Friends and Neighbours), Barry.

SHOPPER TO THE RESCUE!

I WANTED to pass on my thanks and deepest gratitude to a lady who helped me in Holton Road, Barry outside Iceland on Saturday, December 14.

I was struggling to carry (quite a few) bags when one split and food items were all over the pavement, as many people walked past me.

I was panicking, trying to scoop them up when one lady came over and asked if I was OK and immediately helped me pick things up and get things to my car. I didn't get a chance to thank her properly, so I hope she reads this in The GEM!

Nowadays, it seems day-to-day lives are so hectic – so thank you for taking the time to stop and help me.

Mark Tuck, Penmark.

Many thanks to the library staff

IT was by pure chance that, days before the event, I became involved in the 'What the Dickens...' concert on Wednesday, December 18, at Barry Library.

Can I please pinch a few inches of space in The GEM to say what an absolute joy it was to be part of an event that celebrated the real meaning of Christmas, right in the middle of the town's busiest shopping area.

It clearly demonstrated what a precious resource and hub of the community the library is.

As usual, the library staff pulled out all the stops with all sorts of help and imaginative displays.

I loved the 'book angel' on the Christmas tree and the good people of Barry gave generously to two charities, Breast Cancer UK and the British Heart Foundation.

I hope all those good folk who were there enjoyed the performance as much as I enjoyed making my small contribution.

David Alexander
Barry

The problem is free parking!

PART of the car parking problem in Cowbridge arises from the fact that the Town Hall car park is free – so there is no incentive for people to limit the time vehicles are left there.

Every time I visit Cowbridge during the daytime, there is the usual ritual of touring around the car park, hoping to find a place or spot someone about to depart; I am sure readers will recognise this.

I am convinced that a number of cars are parked there semi-permanently (some, it seems, under Statutory Off Road Notifications (SORN)), which obviously restricts the available spaces even more.

Could I suggest that a charge is introduced between the hours of 9am–5 pm, Monday to Saturday, along the lines of: first two hours free; next two hours at £1 per hour; a further two hours at £2.50 per hour; and the last two hours at £5. per hour?

Such a graduated fee would penalise long-stay parkers – but could, hopefully, provide more opportunity for shoppers and visitors to find short-term parking.

Steve Monaghan,
Creigiau

HIGH TIDE TIMES (UNTIL JANUARY 8)

The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary. For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 – 25 minutes later.

Bryn Hafren's young chefs score one, two, three in competition

BRYN HAFREN Comprehensive School took part in The Rotary Chef Competition recently.

Year-10 food technology pupils took part in the competition where they had to cook a three-course meal.

'Rotary Chef' is an international organisation open to children in the UK who are under 16 years old.

There are five rounds of cooking to find a winner. The girls competed against pupils from Ysgol Bro Morgannwg.

Stacey, the head chef from the Duke of Wellington in Cowbridge, and currently 'Brains' Chef of the Year, came into the school to give ideas to the contestants about the presentation of their food.

The girls who took part from Bryn Hafren were Hannah Kerslake, Megan Bell, Chloe Wilson, Charlotte Rose, and Maisey Ladner.

Mrs Hooper, head of food technology, said: "All the girls cooked a three-course meal very well - their food showed flair and creativity.

"They demonstrated a good understanding of local seasonal produce and very good hygiene and workmanship."

The girls' parents were present to see the presentation ceremony. Bryn Hafren pupils achieved top results: 1st Hannah Kerslake, 2nd Charlotte Rose and 3rd Megan Bell.

Hannah will now go on to the next round cooking against other schools in the county.

Carys Slack, Emily Owen and Natasja Gill,

Callum - who took his winning image of water swirling through woodland in Margam Park - was in good company as the whole school entered the competition as part of their lessons.

AN eight-year-old Barry schoolboy snapped up one of the top prizes in a nationwide photography competition, run by Natural Resources Wales, which focused on the vital relationship between our woodlands and water.

Callum Savory received £100 worth of high street vouchers and a visit for all his classmates at Romilly Primary School to a Natural Resources Wales-managed woodland of their choice after he won the competition's 11 and under age category.

Natural Resources Wales received more than 500 entries to the competition, with gift vouchers totalling £450 up for grabs for the best images depicting the connection between one of our most beautiful and constantly changing habitats and water.

Children from as young as three years old up to the age of 18 took

Cadets on course to be assistant basic expedition leaders

RIGHT:
The successful
Cadets in front of a Hawk jet.

RECENTLY, four Air Cadets from 372 (Barry) Squadron successfully completed their assistant basic expedition leader course, designed to develop outdoor leadership skills.

As a result, Cadets are now able to assist the instructors to prepare the Air Cadets for adventurous training activities and Duke of Edinburgh expeditions.

This intensive course included learning about the role and responsibilities of the assistant leader, as well as planning, leading and evaluating expeditions.

The Cadets also learned about promoting environmental responsibility; and developed their navigation and campcraft skills. They experienced a demanding and challenging weekend on Dartmoor, as well as more local training on the hills, as well as classroom work. Throughout the course, the Cadets improved their presentation skills and confidence.

Corporal Toby Boss said: "The course was amazing. We all worked really hard but we still enjoyed it."

This will help me to train and prepare the younger Cadets alongside the squadron instructors for their expeditions.

"Cadets taking part were: Toby Boss, Rachel Carbis, Georgia James and Jake Paterson."

"The skills these Cadets have learned now will benefit them for many years to come".

The Cadets are now preparing themselves for a busy and challenging couple of months including, flying, gliding, shooting, sport, Duke of Edinburgh expeditions and their annual overseas trip to Belgium and France.

372 Squadron has vacancies for boys and girls between 13 - 18 years old.

The Squadron parade on Mondays and Wednesdays 7pm - 9.30pm, behind Adams Funeral Parlour. Phone 01446 747734, email oc.372@aircadets.org or visit the Squadron website

It's good news 'time'... PENARTH RAFA CLUB HAS ITS CLOCK BACK!

RIGHT:
PC Huw Longman is pictured at the unveiling of the restored clock at Penarth RAFA together with club secretary Tony Parsons and Shelagh Evans who funded the renovation of the clock.

ALMOST 12 months after a historic wall clock was stolen from the RAF Association in the centre of Penarth, it has been restored and re-hung with pride of place in the building on Windsor Road.

Police were first alerted to the theft on December 30, 2012 after the distinctive RAF Section wall clock was stolen. Following the execution of a drugs warrant at a property in Plassey Street, Penarth, South Wales Police arrested a 36 year-old local man who was later convicted of theft.

Although it was successfully recovered, the clock was damaged and needed repairing and renovating.

At a special unveiling ceremony held at the association recently, Penarth neighbourhood PC Huw Longman was invited to help celebrate the occasion.

Celtic Long boat joins Barry yacht club's 'fleet'

BARRY Yacht Club Sea Rowing took delivery of their second Celtic Long Boat. It was purchased with the aid of a grant from Sport Wales, in recognition of the growth and development of sea rowing around the Welsh coast and the enthusiasm of the newly-formed Barry Rowers.

This year they were awarded the 'Best New Club' by the Welsh Sea Rowing Association.

Club spokesman, Roger Donkin, reported: "The new boat was launched from the Yacht Club slipway for an invigorating row in the outer harbour - while in the channel, a force six or seven gale pushed up a big sea across the harbour entrance, creating a large swell inside which the boat handled very well."

Talk on festive music through the ages at Barry U3A...

A musical lucky dip with a festive flavour' was a good prelude to Christmas for members of Barry U3A when Clive Sims gave a talk, with musical illustrations, on Christmas music.

It covered music from the pagan winter solstice being incorporated in the Christian nativity, (when in the 8th century, monks would chant 'Oh come, oh come, Emmanuel) and now in Afghanistan when troops are entertained by U2 performing 'White as Snow' to the same melody.

This musical journey took us through to the Nine Lessons of carols and Christing that we enjoy to-day. Christmas festivities continued with an excellent lunch in the restaurant at Barry College, where the students 'pulled out all the stops' to give us a great time.

Our local history group also enjoyed a festive meal at the Fox and Hound, before proceeding to St Cadoc's Church to view the amazing medieval wall paintings of St George and the Dragon, as well as the newly-discovered Seven Deadly Sins.

The New Year monthly meeting is on January 6, starting at 2pm in the New Jerusalem Hall, Barry.

The speaker is Val Warlow on 'A Wartime Childhood'.

Loving tribute paid to Bill... A 'DEVOTED FATHER AND GRANDFATHER'

THE family of a Dinas Powys man who died in a road traffic collision on Wednesday, December 18, at Redlands Road, Penarth, have paid a loving tribute to him.

William Crocker, aged 82, who was better known as Bill, was travelling home at around 10.20pm when his car, a silver-coloured Kia Rio, was in collision with a bollard.

Mr Crocker's family said they were heart-broken at the loss of a devoted father and grandfather, who had many friends and was well known in Dinas Powys and Penarth.

His family said: "Originally from Lowestoft, Bill lived in Cardiff from the age of eight. He married Glynis in 1960 and was happily married for 50 years. The couple settled in Dinas Powys in 1965.

"As a young man he followed his family tradition and went to sea, working on the trawlers and for a short time in the Merchant Navy.

"During his life, he had a variety of jobs. His final employment was as a school caretaker and driver at Lindens school in Penarth.

"Bill was a member of the Oddfellows Friendly Society in Cardiff. He had many interests and hobbies which included singing, travelling the world as a member of a male voice choir, gardening, cooking and being with his family.

"He was a devoted father and grandfather and leaves behind his daughters Sally and Jayne, son Robert, sons-in-law Ben and Rupert, and five grandchildren."

Any members of the public who witnessed the collision and have not yet come forward, are asked to contact the Serious Collision Investigation Unit on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 quoting number 62130396544.

The Vale Council's cabinet member for housing, building maintenance and community safety, Coun Bronwen Brooks, said:

New Island road scheduled to be finished by 2015

A new road to Barry Island should be completed by 2015.

An agreement is close to being struck involving the Welsh Government, the Vale Council and the Waterfront Consortium, which includes a £2million loan, and will enable the road to be completed three years ahead of the previous schedule of 2018.

A Vale Council spokeswoman explained: "The link road will run through the centre of the Waterfront complex, providing a much more direct link to the Island from Cardiff Road.

"When completed, it will be of significant benefit in terms of attracting further investment and visitors to the Island.

"The loan agreements, when signed, will mean that the road can be built in one phase rather than three with an anticipated completion date of 2015, nearly three years earlier than the original 2018 estimate."

Coun Lis Burnett, the cabinet member responsible for regeneration and transportation, said: "I am very pleased about this positive step forward to completing the Barry Island Link Road which will benefit the people of Barry and future visitors.

"Negotiations are always complicated when we are dealing with tax-payers' money, but I'm delighted that we are now within touching distance of an agreement."

Richard Keogh of the Waterfront Consortium said the consortium was pleased an agreement was close and hoped that the road would be completed as early as the summer of 2015.

Barry man is given a suspended sentence for growing cannabis

by AJ SICLUNA

A CANNABIS grower has been sentenced to eight months imprisonment, suspended for 18 months at Cardiff Crown Court.

Police went to the home of Jeffrey Copp and found 12 cannabis plants growing.

There was also growing equipment, including lighting and watering facilities.

Copp, of Michaelston Close, Barry, was convicted by Cardiff Magistrates of cultivating cannabis and had been committed to the Crown Court for sentencing.

Prosecutor Rebecca Griffiths said that on November 1, police stopped Copp, who was driving a Mazda car in Barry.

He gave a false name and date of birth and also provided other details which were false.

Later, he confirmed who he was, and said he didn't have a licence or insurance.

When police went to his home, Copp went into his bedroom, locked the door and the key snapped in the lock.

Officers were aware of a strong smell of cannabis and inside found a dozen plants.

Interviewed, Copp said he gave false details because he panicked.

The drugs, he said, were for his own use.

The court heard he had convictions for 83 offences, 11 for drugs matters.

He also had one previous conviction for producing cannabis at the same address, involving 19 plants in 2009 when he had received six months.

His solicitor, Aubrey Sampson, said: "He has had a difficult two-and-a-half years.

He bought cannabis from a local dealer and to save money, decided to grow his own.

"It was not a sophisticated set up, and if he avoids custody, there is a £300 a week job available.

"He has arrears on his flat and if he goes to prison, he will lose his accommodation."

Recorder Jeremy Jenkins said: "I'm not told what the crop would have realised or what it was worth. It is accepted that it was solely for your own use.

"You have blatantly ignored any lesson you could have learned in 2009. Here you are again cultivating cannabis at the same premises."

Copp was also ordered to carry out 120 hours unpaid work and to pay costs of £340, plus a victim surcharge of £100.

The drugs and the growing equipment were ordered to be destroyed.

Saying goodbye to single sex schools?

THE Vale Council says that a public consultation exercise has revealed that parents and pupils in Barry are in favour of a change to co-educational secondary schooling.

Secondary education is currently organised on a single sex basis at Barry Comprehensive School for boys and Bryn Hafren Comprehensive School for girls. The schools share a mixed sixth form.

The proposal would see a new co-educational school on the two current sites.

A council spokesperson said that over 950 people responded to the proposal.

When the response was analysed, 81 per cent of parents, 75 per cent of secondary school pupils and 69 per cent of primary school pupils said they were in favour of the proposed new school.

The spokesperson added that most of the staff did not support the idea because they were concerned about how any change would affect them.

Coun Chris Elmore, the cabinet member for children's services, said: "I am very pleased that local people welcome our proposal for co-educational schooling in Barry.

"We will now develop detailed plans for the new school and will look to address the concerns raised during the consultation by some parents and staff."

A project board will now be set up with representatives of both schools and the council, and a programme of work will begin to develop the proposals for a change to co-educational secondary schooling in Barry.

The proposals are expected to be the subject of further consultation later in 2014.

MAN JAILED

Draper denied being involved and accused the other person with him.

"This was a street mugging with violence," said Mr Jones.

The next day, Draper was found to be carrying a knife in his sock. He said: "I'm carrying it for protection because there are people after me."

Later he approached Joseph Hartland in Barry Road, threatened to rob him and kicked him to the face. It was when he was arrested that the knife was found on him.

Draper was said to have convictions for offences including assault, causing actual bodily harm and possessing drugs.

His counsel, Kevin Seal, said: "He is a troubled young man with problems, but his guilty pleas indicate his remorse. At the time of the incident, he was homeless."

He said he had been on drugs and alcohol and was not in control of himself.

He added: "All the offences were unplanned, not premeditated and this will be his first time in custody."

Said Mr Seal: "When sober, he is a completely different person."

Said the Judge: "You committed all these offences within three days. You once used your elbow as a weapon."

Work to start at Albert Primary

IMPROVEMENT work is set to go ahead at Albert Primary School, Penarth, after plans were agreed at a meeting this week.

Preliminary work is already under way and the main programme, which is expected to start early in the spring, will see the former caretaker's house brought back into use by the school.

Work at the school, which is a listed building, will also see improvements to the flat roofs and high level stonework and the replacement of some windows.

A council spokesperson said: "At a recent meeting between the school and council officers, detailed plans were agreed that will ensure the school can continue to provide a great education to local children throughout the building programme, which is expected to continue until the early autumn."

Headteacher Huw Jones added: "I am extremely grateful to everyone for the hard work that has and will be undertaken on behalf of the whole school community."

Coun Chris Elmore said: "I am pleased to see that the children and staff at Albert will very soon start to see the benefits of the investment that the council agreed earlier in the year.

"I am certain that any inconvenience in the short term will be outweighed by the benefits from our investment in the school."

Magical night of song at St David's Hall

DECEMBER was a busy month for Cadoxton WI.

During the first week several members went to the Christmas concert at St David's Hall organized by GFWI.

It was a magical night of Christmas songs and music.

The guest artists were Only Men Allowed who did their own spots and also sang with the WI choir.

There was a parade of banners which was colourful and emotional.

The next week members had their Christmas lunch at the Seashore Grill, Swanbridge; this again was a great success.

Festive party

Finally, the branch held its own Christmas party at Victoria Park Community Centre.

Tim Reynolds entertained with a varied repertoire, also explaining the history behind some of the music.

There was a secret Santa and many raffles.

The winners of the raffles were: Averil, Carol, Cynthia, Kath, June, Bronwen, Jenny, Cheryl, Linda, Blanche, Sue and Diane.

The next meeting is January 20 at 7pm.

New members are welcome, please contact 01446 404891.

Brecon Court residents face an uncertain 2014

Brecon Court, off Barry Road - its residents are likely to be rehoused in the future.

AS a new year dawns, the elderly residents of a block of flats in Barry face an uncertain future, knowing that at some stage they must move due to subsidence.

Brecon Court comprises a small, close-knit community of 34 flats and 40 people. Underpinning work to shore up the building in 2006 has been deemed a temporary measure and the Vale Council is now examining ways of re-housing residents.

In the autumn of last year, residents had harboured the hope that a move might only apply to people in flats where cracks had appeared, but the block is likely to be demolished.

The chairman of the residents' association, Phil Turnbull, told The GEM: "Residents have accepted that they have got to move. There is now a lot of uncertainty as to where they will go."

"So far, nobody has moved yet. You can't 'invent' accommodation, and it is a case of waiting to see what becomes available."

The oldest resident in the block is 92 years old.

A solution for some residents may be the new Extra Care facility which is under construction at the former

Theatre Royal site, although Mr Turnbull says some residents have doubts: "A lot of people are not too keen because they are concerned about noise in the area when people have left clubs and pubs."

A tenant liaison officer has been appointed to allay residents' fears and maintain the lines of communication between Brecon Court and Vale Council officers.

Mr Turnbull added: "She has been very good and we have been able to put questions to her. Of course, she does have to go back to the council before we get a response."

"Uncertainty remains because we don't know how long it will be until people move. It could be in a few months - or longer."

Residents hope they will be compensated for the inconvenience of moving so late in life when they thought they were settled, and hope there will be help with the costs of moving.

A recent Vale cabinet report recommended that residents should be given preference as social housing becomes available.

Burglary suspect sought after Dinas Powys incident

POLICE in the Vale are appealing for information, following a burglary which took place at Railway Terrace in Dinas Powys.

The police say the incident occurred between 1.15pm and 2.35pm on Monday, December 23, when entry was gained via a patio door.

The burglar was disturbed and fled the scene on foot along Cardiff Road in the direction of Barry. It is believed he ran along Sunnybank Close and into a field.

He is described as being in his mid 20s, white, wearing a grey hooded top and a black hat.

Jewellery, including rings and necklaces were stolen, as well as personal documents.

Police conducted a search of the area, using search dogs and the force helicopter.

Anyone who has information about the burglary, or the stolen property, should call police on 101; or Crimestoppers, free and anonymously, on 0800 555 111, quoting reference number 62130401762.

Barry Men's Forum hears tales of the 'Filter Room'

AT the last meeting of the Barry Men's Forum before Christmas, members enjoyed mince pies, tea and coffee, before forum member Quentin Lewis proposed a vote of thanks and presented Diane Westcott with a bouquet in thanks for her unstinting efforts in providing refreshments each and every week for the members.

The chairman then welcomed new member Derek Williams, before introducing Eileen Younghusband, a nonagenarian, who went on to recall some of the many famous people, she had met during her long and interesting life.

At school, she knew Warren Mitchell ('Alf Garnett') and – not related – George Mitchell, who became the bandleader in the Black and White Minstrel show, popular on TV in the 1960s.

In 1938, soon after leaving school, she was an au-pair in France, caring for a French minister's children, and met many famous French politicians, but it wasn't long before he said she had to return to Britain because of the mass encampment of German troops in an adjacent demilitarised area.

In 1940, she volunteered to help feed the men who were evacuated from Dunkirk.

When serving the troops at Woking station, a friend, Renee Cavo, who had stayed with her family prior to the war, recognised her, and they renewed their friendship.

He returned to France, had a distinguished career with the French Resistance, and helped to repatriate many British 'prisoners of war'.

The same year, she also joined the RAF and met numerous people who went on to become famous, such as Kenneth Horne and Richard Murdoch.

She was located in the 'Filter Room', the hub for the Battle of Britain, where she often met Dowding and Winston Churchill when they went to watch as the air battles were being fought.

She recommended that forum members should visit the new Stanmore Museum which includes the famous 'Filter Room'.

She was invited for the opening, where she had chatted with Prince Charles about the work they did during the war, and chided him for not having read her book about the operations.

Next week, Gavin Davies will be talking about 'The Battle of the Somme'. New members are welcome.

'Recycle your festive tree' – council urges

NEXT week, on your usual recycling day, the Vale Council will take your real tree away for recycling – as encouraged by waste management and cleansing colleagues John Oliver and Paul Everest.

The cabinet member for the environment and visible services, Coun Rob Curtis, said: "It is really easy, all you do is remove the decorations and leave out your real tree kerbside by 7am – you don't even have to chop it up; we will take it away whole."

Trees are taken away and shredded, before being composted and turned into a soil enhancer, which may then be used to help grow a new tree for your family in a few years' time!

Don't forget, if you miss your collection day, you may take your tree to either Barry or Llandow Household Waste Recycling Centre.

YOUNG DANCERS RAISE £3,000 FOR CANCER RESEARCH CHARITY

A sparkling performance!

A recent performance of The Nutcracker at Barry Memorial Hall by the dancers of the Moya Vahey and Ella Morgan Schools of Classical Ballet raised nearly £3,000 for cancer research.

The performance was hailed a great success with many in the audience commenting on the professionalism of the young dancers.

They were supported more than ably by the musicians of the Rhondda Sinfonietta Players, who played magnificently and gave up their time for free.

The show was also supported by many local businesses who advertised in the programme and donated prizes to the raffle.

All in all, a very happy start to the Christmas season.

'Luxury' otter home

STAFF from Dow Corning recently joined the Wildlife Trust of South and West Wales (WTSWW) in providing a luxury new potential home for otters within the Cadoxton Ponds nature reserve, on the boundary of the Dow Corning industrial site.

Otters are one of the UK's biggest carnivores and are an unusual example of an animal whose fortunes have dramatically improved over the last few decades.

They have recovered following years of persecution and the effect of harmful chemicals entering the water system. Since the 1960s otters have bounced back and can now be found in every catchment in Wales.

At Cadoxton ponds there are few natural holt sites due to the lack of overhanging banks or mature trees, so WTSWW and staff from Dow Corning teamed up to create an artificial holt within a secluded part of the reserve, well away from potential disturbance.

Thanks to Chris Chadwick and the rest of the Dow Corning team for their enthusiastic assistance! VM

SUSPENDED SENTENCE, BAN AND A £15,000 FINE FOR VALE FARM BROTHERS

TWO brothers who farm in Llanmaes, have been banned from keeping animals for five years - after pleading guilty to failing to care for a herd of cattle.

In March of 2013 a team of council officers and veterinary surgeons swooped on their farm.

Robert and Gwyn Bassett of Brook Farm, Llanmaes, pleaded guilty at Cardiff Crown Court on December 18 to 39 charges under the Animal Welfare Act 2006 of causing unnecessary suffering and failing to provide a suitable environment, diet and appropriate care for a herd of approximately 100 head of cattle.

The brothers also pleaded guilty to 10 charges of failing to cover carcasses to prevent birds and animals accessing them, of failing to dispose of carcasses without undue delay, of failing to notify the deaths by returning the cattle passports, and of failing to keep an up-to-date herd register.

A Vale Council spokesperson said: "The Vale Council's Trading Standards department began investigating, following complaints received from the public.

"Cattle were found kept in appalling conditions in derelict buildings with nowhere to lie - apart from in slurry. The cows were suffering from malnutrition, dehydration and exhaustion.

"Despite 10 improvement notices being served by council officers, and numerous visits supported by veterinary surgeons, the brothers failed to comply and the situation did not improve.

"The Vale Council seized the herd of cattle on March 18-19, (2013), to prevent any further suffering to the animals and removed them to Hillside Animal Sanctuary, where they could be given the appropriate care.

"Eight of the cattle were in such a poor condition they had to be humanely put to sleep, but 92 were saved. Subsequently the Trading Standards Department applied for an Order under Section 20 of the Animal Welfare Act 2006 to take ownership of the cattle, which was granted by Cardiff Magistrates Court.

"Robert and Gwyn Bassett were each sentenced to a five-year ban preventing them from owning and keeping animals; an eight months suspended sentence for two years; a £15,000 fine and £7,500 costs.

"The brothers have six months in which to pay the fine, failing that, they face a potential 12-month custodial sentence."

The Principal Trading Standards Officer, Christina Roberts-Kinsey, said: "This has been a harrowing case of wilful animal neglect.

"Despite the best efforts by this department to ensure compliance with animal health legislation, it was ignored by the Bassett brothers.

"The sentence illustrates the seriousness of the offences committed by the farmers. I would like to thank Hillside Animal Sanctuary for aiding us and providing a home for the herd."

Peace, hope and new prospects and opportunities for 2014...

THE Christmas and New Year break has provided a welcome opportunity to 'recharge the batteries' for the busy weeks ahead in 2014, with constituency and ministerial responsibilities at the forefront of my mind.

We were blessed with sunshine in Barry enjoying family walks in Porthkerry Park and over to the Island, as well as Dyffryn Gardens, with a Valeways Walk to look forward to in early January, as part of their full 2014 programme.

In walking over to the Island, I was glad to view the year ahead in the certain knowledge that the plans to build the new Barry Island Link Road have now been confirmed, with the announcement of the £2million Welsh Government loan before Christmas.

This has been welcomed widely over the past week, with the Vale Council's agreement with the Welsh Government and Barry Waterfront Consortium confirmed, to enable the partnership to proceed with the arrangements for managing this loan.

It was great to join Coun Neil Moore, the Leader of the Vale Council, Coun Lis Burnett and Richard Keogh, on behalf of the developers, to view the site of the Link Road from the Clive Road

by Vale AM
JANE HUTT
(Minister for Finance and Leader of the House)

Steps. The link road will run through the centre of the next stage of the Waterfront development providing a direct link to the Island from Cardiff Road.

Once completed, it will be significant benefit in terms of attracting further investment and providing better access to the Island for local residents and visitors.

AIRPORT

Further good news for the Vale came before Christmas with the announcement that Cardiff Airport and the eastern half of the St Athan airfield are included in the new Assisted Areas Map for 2014-20, which will be of great benefit to the St

Athan and Cardiff Airport Enterprise Zone. Alongside this good news for future prospects for the Vale, we heard before Christmas that Cardiff Airport had secured new routes with Cityjet, and the Vuelling offers are attracting a great deal of interest.

The works on Barry Town Station are progressing apace, with the new platform being constructed by Network Rail opening up new opportunities for increasing the frequency of the Vale line services to Bridgend.

T9 BUS

My meeting with the managing director of First Cymru Buses, Justin Davies, before Christmas enabled me to share my views about the need for the T9 to the airport to be used more flexibly.

I have suggested that there should be stops at least once an hour through the Vale on the route from Cardiff to the airport, to meet bus users' needs. I have made my views clear as part of the review of the T9 service and I am optimistic that this will result in changes.

With the Vale Council also undertaking a full review of Vale bus services, including assessing the impact of the withdrawal of services by bus companies, I am supporting all those who are making their voices heard about the importance of bus travel in Barry and the Vale.

Having met with the Transport Minister and the Leader of the Council to raise these issues and concerns, I will be liaising closely with all those who can influence the future decisions about our bus services which are vital economically and socially.

One of the first ministerial commitments next week will be to meet UK Government Ministers to discuss the needs of Wales to help progress the new Wales Bill, giving greater fiscal powers to Wales and to meet the UK Infrastructure Minister to discuss shared goals and needs.

A busy year ahead, but with good opportunities and prospects if we manage our resources and responsibilities wisely. My particular focus will be on securing job opportunities for our young people and providing support for the vulnerable.

Mayor's festive elf costume boosts raffle

THE Vale of Glamorgan Mayor, Coun Margaret Wilkinson, entered into the Christmas spirit and dressed as an elf to encourage council staff to buy tickets for her Christmas raffle.

It was obviously a success as the raffle raised just over £1,677 for the Mayor's charities – Age Cymru, Dreams & Wishes and NCI at Nell's Point.

Coun Wilkinson said: "I am very grateful for all the support I've received and am delighted with the amount raised for my charities."

"My thanks to all the staff and councillors for their support and to the following companies for their generosity – Villa Napoli in Penarth; Ledley Engineering; Wilkinsons; Paul Gentile the Jewellers; Izmir Restaurant in Barry; Poundstretcher, Barry; RWE Power; Dow Corning; Waitrose; Huddarts of Cowbridge; the Cardiff & Vale Burial Ground and Unison, VoG branch."

THE Mayor of Barry, Coun Claire Curtis, attended a festive party at Sunrise Residential Home, during a visit on December 18.

A spokesman for the home told The GEM: "It was our Christmas party on the day and the lady mayor seemed to have enjoyed her visit.

"We were honoured that she took the time to come and meet our residents and the staff."

OAPs living in a sheltered scheme run by Newydd Housing Association like to give something back, and this year organised a raffle in aid of the British Heart Foundation (BHF).

Chris Murrell of the residents' association said: "We managed to raise the fantastic amount of £501. Pictured above for the cheque presentation were Chris Murrell from Arthur Davidson Court, Kim Hooper and Lauren Campbell from BHF, and Muriel Thomas of Arthur Davidson Court, too.

"We would like to whole-heartedly thank everyone who contributed. Special thanks to Sandra Rehman of Arthur Davidson Court who single-handedly

New scheme teaches skills to the homeless

Coun Bronwen Brooks watches a lesson in progress.

STAFF from the Vale Council's homeless hostel, Ty Iolo, and council contractor Ian Williams Ltd have teamed up to teach DIY skills to former and current residents of the hostel.

The four-week training course was held at Robert Price Building Merchants in Barry, and offered training in painting, wallpapering, carpentry and tiling to give tenants the confidence to undertake home improvements once they have their own home.

Lee Chappell, a previous resident of Ty Iolo, said: "The people are very friendly and patient and the course gives you a head start for when you move into your property."

Coun Bronwen Brooks, cabinet member for housing, building maintenance and community safety, who was invited to the final course, said: "I was really pleased to come and see the volunteers passing on their skills. This project is what community spirit is all about."

Sinead O' Neill, customer service and community manager for Ian Williams, said: "We are committed to delivering the community promises that we make to our customers. Ty Iolo and its dedicated staff offer an essential service to many individuals and families who find themselves in need of temporary accommodation."

"What is special about this type of project is that there is always a tangible outcome at the end."

Ian Williams, manager of Ty Iolo, and the Vale Council are now in the process of evaluating the project and plan further sessions during 2014.

Pupils have a busy end of term programme

CLASS 9SP held a cake break and raffle recently and raised over £80 for the Children's Cardiac Unit at the University Hospital of Wales.

They have also donated their old toys to the play room on the ward.

Pupils in years 10 – 12 visited the Clothes Show Live exhibition in Birmingham NEC. Not only did they shop till they dropped, but they also saw professional fashion shows, hair and beauty demonstrations and style makeovers.

NEWS FROM BRYN HAFREN SCHOOL

Pupils also saw former pupil, award-winning Hannah Williams show her graduate collection on the catwalk.

On December 17, pupils delivered 52 hampers to elderly residents in Barry as part of the annual Christmas hamper tradition at Bryn Hafren. The hampers were bursting with food, from everyday items to chocolate treats, and were topped with a Christmas cake made by the Food Technology Department.

Staff at Bryn Hafren put on an extra special nativity play for pupils in years-7 to 10. The cast was led by headteacher Mr Whitcombe as Joseph, and deputy headteacher Mrs Olden as Mary.

Year-7 pupils visited the Memorial Theatre to watch the Billboard panto Jack and the Beanstalk, starring our very own Mr Coombs.

A group of year-8 pupils have been working on a special Christmas enterprise project recently. They have designed and made a range of products in small groups over the last few weeks, and have been selling them to pupils during the last week of term to raise money. Products ranged from stockings, Christmas tree decorations and jewellery.

Year-8 pupils were lucky enough to go on a reward trip to see Frozen in the cinema; while year-9 pupils went to Planet Ice to go ice skating. The 5x60 regulars were rewarded with a ski trip as well.

Singers raised £230 for appeal

TWENTY members of Cowbridge Choral Society spent an evening before Christmas carol singing around the town in aid of the Noah's Ark Children's Hospital.

Over £230 was collected from customers in the Bear Hotel, The Vale Inn, The Duke of Wellington, Bar 44, The Horse and Groom, L'Ariosto's and The Edmondson Arms.

The society would like to offer thanks and appreciation to all the establishments, and to the customers who gave so generously and joined in with the choir.

The society resumes rehearsals today (January 2) when work begins on two pieces for the spring concert, Gounod's Messe Solennelle (St Cecilia) and Puccini's Messe di Gloria, which will be performed in March with the Pontypridd Choral Society.

New members are always welcome to join, and experience is not essential. Rehearsals take place in the United Free Church, Westgate St (opposite the Police Station) every Thursday at 7.30pm.

Walter Mitty (alias Ben Stiller) enthralls, inspires and dazzles in beautiful film

WHILE Ben Stiller may have made his name as a comedic star in the raucous likes of There's Something About Mary, the actor has a sensitive side best exemplified in his smaller work in films like Greenberg and The Royal Tenenbaums.

Stiller's worlds collide in The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, a big-budget comedy/drama directed by Stiller himself which tells the story of the titular Mitty (played by Stiller), a day-dreamer whose life is punctuated by flights of fancy.

When his job is threatened, he must track down a missing photo, a mission that becomes even more fanciful than his mental adventures and one that may very well change his life...

James Thurber's source novel has already been adapted for the big screen once in the 1947 film of the same name starring Danny Kaye, but Ben Stiller's version is faithful neither to that film, nor to the book.

The daydreaming aspect of Mitty's character is tied up in the first half hour, the raft of fantasy sequences giving way to something far more human and grounded.

This allows the real beauty of the film to shine through, the story less about a daydreamer and more about a man whose world and horizons are ever changing, inspired by his desire to do right and that age-old motivational tool – love.

While Ben Stiller has always been a good director, here he really lets loose, creating a film with a distinct visual style that looks absolutely gorgeous; whether it's the interior of the Life magazine office building, or the desolate Greenland vistas, every shot feels beautifully framed, with clever nods inserted that don't feel like a director trying to be too clever, instead nailing the tone Stiller is aiming for.

The size of the budget is clearly on show here, with the majority of the location film conveying the epic nature of the world we live in, and Stiller's ability to capture this marks him out as more than simply a comedic director.

Steven Conrad's script wisely casts the fantasy sequences out early on, using the concept as a launchpad to craft a tale of a man who spends so much time inside his own head that he finds it difficult living in the real world.

While some of Conrad's themes of self-discovery could have felt a little mawkish (and, admittedly, sometimes they do lapse into sentimentality), predominantly the feeling is of wonder and affirmation, Mitty regaining control of his life in (extreme) circumstances, but in a way many watching may wish they could emulate.

In front of the camera, Stiller is perfectly cast as the average guy in extraordinary circumstances, something he's become a little too good at in recent years, but he gives a wonderful performance as the unlikely hero, while Kristen Wiig offers a lovely foil as the woman of his affections.

Kathryn Hahn, Shirley MacLaine and Adam Scott are all superb in supporting roles, but this is a film that hangs entirely on Stiller's shoulders and the actor (and director) relishes the opportunity, in what is a wonderfully uplifting film.

VERDICT: An affirming, charming and beautiful film, The Secret Life of Walter Mitty is a wonderful piece of work, with Ben Stiller's direction hugely impressive and his performance just as strong.

Perfect for an age where people seem to prefer living life inwardly, this is the perfect antidote to that, inspiring and uplifting. Recommended.

Welsh Society's fundraising efforts help voluntary group

EVERY year, Cymdeithas Gymraeg Dinas Powys Welsh Society holds a charity fundraising evening and this year's choice of charity was especially pertinent to the village of Dinas Powys.

The Dinas Powys Voluntary Concern Ambulance/Bus is a very special service offered to the elderly of the village, and many of our members are on the rota for driving the vehicle and collecting and delivering our older residents to various venues.

The evening at the Parish Hall was a tremendous success. We were entertained in both Welsh and English by the wonderful classical group 'Fortza', who also led the assembled guests in carol singing, which was a joy to hear.

It is with delight, therefore, that we can announce that we made a profit of £2,565 on that night and the large cheque was presented to

John Fanshaw, chairman of DPVC (above) following our Christmas service at St Peter's Church in the presence of Dr Barry Morgan, Archbishop of Wales on December 16.

It will be put to good use, and enhance the lives of the less mobile members of the community.

The society wishes to thank everyone who helped to make the evening such a success.

Whitmore Bay swimmers brave the Boxing Day cold

ABOVE: The volunteer lifeguards at Whitmore Bay organised a Boxing Day swim, where more than 130 brave souls dashed into the icy cold waves. The annual event is fast becoming a 'must see' for Christmas spectators, and a 'must do' for anyone wanting to burn off any excess calories!

ATC Squadron celebrates with two promotions!

Flt Sgt (ATC) Kevin Gould.

JUST like a bus, you wait for one and then two come along! The end of December saw two very proud and happy men at 2117 (Kenfig Hill) Squadron RAF Air Cadets.

Wing Commander Mike Stones RAFVR (T) and Sqn Ldr Gerry Lewis RAFVR (T) of No 3 Welsh Wing RAF Air Cadets, visited the squadron to announce the promotions. The cadets were called to the parade room and addressed by Wing Commander Mike Stones.

Sgt (ATC) Kevin Gould was promoted to Flight Sergeant; he has been with Kenfig Hill Squadron since 2008 and has been one of the main organisers of the many visits and events the cadets take part in.

At present he is

responsible for squadron discipline and drill, squadron maintenance and is in charge of the flight simulator.

The second promotion was that of Flt Lt Barry Thomas RAFVR (T) to Squadron Leader.

Commanding Officer of Kenfig Hill for just over 25 years, in the last year he has also taken on being the point of contact for the IT system, BADER, used by the wing. It is usual for a Squadron Leader to take up a post at Wing HQ, but Sqn Ldr Thomas is to remain as Officer Commanding Kenfig Hill Squadron.

Wing Commander Mike Stones congratulated both on their promotions and handed new rank tabs to both Flt Sgt Gould and Sqn Ldr Thomas.

A New Year for Hobbies, Fitness & Leisure

The New Year is a great time to make a change!

AT this time of year, you can't escape the subject of that New Year resolution.

It's a prime example of how hope springs eternal in the human spirit.

Something about the numerical change of year brings out a wave of optimism, and you are inspired to do something that you hope will change your life!

Probably the most popular resolution is to move to a healthier lifestyle, taking more exercise and eating a healthier diet.

This is hardly surprising, as most of us are weighed down by Christmas indulgences, and the electronic scales have started flashing red for danger!

It's hard to argue with that type of resolution. It's a plan that anyone would benefit from. However, there are plenty of alternatives for that new year promise to yourself.

Why not decide to read more books during the year?

Just have one on the go all the time, and read a few pages every day, to get into the habit again.

You could, of course, decide to take the option of joining an evening class, or getting involved in a new hobby.

We journalists on The GEM, because of the nature of our job, get to know a little bit about a lot of subjects, but one thing is very clear.

Almost any subject can be fascinating if you get the chance to go deeper into it.

There's so much out there to learn - and not just during January!

TAKING THE WEIGHT OFF YOUR MIND...

LOCAL Slimming World consultant Helen Waite wants to help more people achieve their weight loss goals in 2014.

Helen says: "2013 was a great year for many of my members. With many, many stones being shed in the Llantwit Major groups, and many members reaching their dream target weights by eating everyday normal foods that the whole family are able to eat with you, there is never a better time to join Slimming World."

More than half of people in Wales (57 per cent) are overweight and 22 per cent have an obese BMI: 22 per cent of Welsh children aged three were overweight, just over five per cent were obese and 35 per cent are classified as overweight or obese, including 19 per cent obese.

At Slimming World all 11 to 15-year-old children are able to come free of charge with a parent member. They have their own fantastic plan and are supported on their journey.

"My children are five and seven years old and they enjoy the meals I cook, it makes it so much easier as it's just healthy food rather than 'diet' food."

"Their favourite is spaghetti bolognese or egg, beans and chips," says Helen.

"Men in Wales are more likely to be overweight than women – 62 per cent of men are overweight or obese, compared to 53 per cent of women. We have an increasing number of male members attending Slimming World and they are more than welcome to attend."

The physical, psychological and social burdens of obesity can be significant.

There is a social stigma attached to being overweight and people who struggle with their weight often suffer low confidence and self-esteem.

Poor mobility and generally poorer quality of life are other common experiences; as are increased risk of chronic diseases, such as heart disease, diabetes, arthritis, high blood pressure and some types of cancer.

Slimming World can help to combat this – losing just 10 per cent of your starting body weight (known as Club 10) – can give you amazing health benefits, as well as make you feel so much better, and it increases your confidence.

If you would like to make 2014 your year, please feel free to pop along to group on a Tuesday at the Catholic Church, Ham Lane East, at either 9.30am, 5.30pm or 7.30pm – or contact Helen on 01446 750738.

Lest we forget, Welsh is a British language!

IN reply to Eileen Bayley's letter on bilingual signs in The GEM, December 12, she is right to state that Wales is at present part of the United Kingdom, and I find it a shame that the Welsh signs upset her so much.

If she looks around Wales, she will find the names of thousands of Welshmen, Welsh-speaking, or not, on our Cenotaphs - who were good enough and brave enough to fight and die for the United Kingdom. Without their sacrifice, who knows what language she would be speaking now?

Many of those young men would have been Welsh speakers, and it is very sad that it is only recently that we have been able to have Welsh signs and official bilingual forms.

When I served as a member of groundcrew at RAF Brawdy in 1984-88, there were many Welsh speakers on our shift, and I remember an incident with a pilot who shouted at me: "Stop speaking that foreign language!"

My reply was: "With due respect sir, Welsh is a British language, and if you look at the insignia that is on the front of your aircraft and every aircraft here, it reads in Welsh, Amdiffynfa'r Gorllewin, which means Defend the West".

And off he went... There were no more complaints.

If Mrs Bayley needs a Welsh tutor to help her, I am available.

Aled Hughes, Llanilltud Fawr.

'RESPECT IS ALL WE ASK'

HOW disappointing and upsetting it was to read Eileen Bayley's letter in The GEM stating that she was "flabbergasted to encounter bilingual signing" and that "bilingual madness is taking over".

There are 584,000 Welsh speakers in Wales and many more thousands of people who wholly support the use of the Welsh language in a country that is bilingual - a country where Welsh and English have equal rights in law - not to mention the heritage our language gives us from 1,500 years of history.

I am also saddened that she takes her experience of one county in Wales as the identity of a whole country. Each county in Wales has different experiences, culture and heritage to offer - creating the make-up of our country.

It is a shame that Eileen hasn't been able to travel around Wales to experience the different cultures, mannerisms and dialects in our beautiful land.

Welsh is a language I love and choose to speak.

I do not ask Eileen to love the language. I do not ask her to speak the language, or even acknowledge the language - but to respect other people's decision to be able to read, speak and write the language of their choice - whether it is Welsh or English. Miss M. Williams, Llantwit Major.

Welsh Language: All in favour of linguistic diversity

THE GEM has been inundated recently with letters debating the merits and demerits of the Welsh language, and bilingual road signs.

As an Anglo-Welshman (English father; Welsh mother) and having lived here for 46 years, I am all in favour of linguistic diversity.

Furthermore, as a frequent traveller to eastern and central Europe, with many acquaintances and friends, and clients living here from Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Poland, Hungary and Russia; all proficient linguists, I have never heard any of them complain of difficulty following Welsh bilingual road signs.

In addition, while dining in Hungary and elsewhere, with Hungarian being a uniquely difficult and different language, I too, have had no difficulty navigating myself around.

As for Graham Wilson of Boverton (The GEM December 19) stating that he misses trains because of brief Welsh travel announcements, I think he needs to come back down to earth and not fantasise so ridiculously. Christopher Short, Barry.

'It's not lunacy... but bilingual signs costly'

IT is certainly not lunacy to have bilingual signs in Wales; however GEM letter writer Ms Bailey is correct in highlighting the cost.

It is essential that all children in Wales learn English, otherwise their life prospects would be severely curtailed by not being able to do so. They would be limited to living and working in Wales.

It is also desirable, and legally required, that the Welsh language is kept as a living language within the Principality.

The problem is that bilingualism costs money to support. This means money that perhaps ought to be spent on providing and supporting public services, has to be spent on ensuring that both languages are available and taught throughout Wales.

Significant amounts of money could be saved if households were asked by public bodies whether they wish to receive hard copy information in English or Welsh.

As far as I know, the UK Government does not give Wales any more money to cover the costs of bilingualism, so these additional costs have to be met at the expense of services such as health, education and welfare.

There is another issue affecting employment in Wales. When I first moved to Wales 30 years ago, the adverts for senior managers in public bodies emphasised the professional skills required to do the job and specified that knowledge of Welsh was desirable.

If you look at the adverts and job specifications today they now, largely, specify that the ability to speak Welsh is essential.

So a prime requirement for a senior management position in a public body in Wales automatically eliminates anyone who was educated anywhere else in the UK.

Is this a case of positive discrimination to further emphasise the separateness of Wales from the rest of the UK and Europe and does it guarantee high-quality leadership of major bodies?

David Kennett, Cowbridge.

'Why all this talk of money being wasted on Welsh?'

WHAT is all this talk of money spent on Welsh being wasteful? I pay my taxes to have official information in my own language (Welsh) in my own country.

It seems to have been forgotten that Welsh is the language of the Britons. Do those individuals making derogatory remarks about the Welsh language also call themselves Britons? If so, they are using the name fraudulently.

As regards pronouncing Welsh place names, this takes only a little instruction. I can't believe that those complaining lack the intelligence and initiative to do this, not to mention the good manners. Niclas ApGlyn, Penarth

Welsh farmers are at a disadvantage

IWRITE to express the anger, frustration and disappointment of farmers across Wales that our Government has made the unilateral decision to place Welsh farmers at a significant competitive disadvantage, compared to farmers in the rest of the UK and Europe.

The decision made last week by the Minister, Alun Davies, was to siphon away nearly £300m from the bottom line of Welsh agriculture over the next seven years.

He says that this money will be spent on rural activity, but as yet he has no plan on how or where it will be spent.

The Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) is meant to be just that, a common policy across Europe to ensure food security and maintain the highest production standards.

The decision by our Minister to take a greater proportion of support away from Welsh farmers than that being taken in England, Scotland, Northern Ireland, France and Germany, effectively means that our Minister has decided to take the Common out of CAP - and I fear could see food production exported out of Wales to other areas of the UK and Europe - where their governments continue to back farmers and farming.

Farmers are the backbone to rural life in Wales; we provide the production base, we support a multi-billion pound food and drink industry and we produce meat, milk and crops to world leading standards whilst at the same time caring for and enhancing our treasured landscape.

The Minister continually highlights the conversation he wants with farmers. Farmers throughout Wales, as part of these conversations, have expressed their opposition to modulation.

Welsh farmers are now quite rightly asking what is the purpose of a conversation if one decides not to listen. Ed Bailey, president, NFU Cymru.

Wrong to praise council spending

INOTE that the leader Neil Moore and the Vale Council have been awarded a plaque and certificate, from Diverse Excellence Cymru for the recent renovations to the council chamber, which cost taxpayers over £248,000.

This, at a time when we are seeing a massive increase in the number of Vale residents using Foodbanks.

What about the cuts

we can expect in 2014, the predicted council tax increase, and all those residents who have been hit by the 'bedroom tax' and face being evicted from their homes because they have lost benefits?

It is offensive for a body like the DEC to praise councils for spending taxpayers' money on useless projects, when so many people are struggling to live on basics day by day.

DJ Radford, Barry.

Make a resolution to help the Guide Dogs

DO you make a New Year's Resolution, only to break it within days? This year, why not set yourself a more realistic target - and help Guide Dogs into the bargain.

'Give It Up For Guide Dogs' is a campaign that encourages people to give up something they love - such as chocolate, cakes or alcohol - for the whole month of January.

You'll feel even better when friends and family sponsor your efforts, and you give the money to Guide Dogs.

There are currently more than 250 working guide dogs in Wales, many of them in Bridgend and the Vale, and the lifetime cost for each one is estimated at just under £50,000. By Giving It Up For Guide Dogs, you can help us continue our life-changing work, bringing independence and safe mobility to many more blind and partially sighted people.

For more inspiration on what you could Give Up For Guide Dogs, and to download a sponsor form, log on to www.guidedogs.org.uk/fundraising or call 0870 600 23 23.

Alternatively, you can set up an online giving page at Just Giving - simply search for 'Give It Up For Guide Dogs' under Guide Dogs events.

PENARTH AND DISTRICT RAMBLERS' ROUND-UP

Wizards, dragons and robins were our festive companions!

RAMBLERS Festival of Winter Walks has taken in the festive season, and Geraint and his sheepdog Patch played host on two walks before Christmas.

On the shortest day of 2013, seven members enjoyed a walk taking in Castell Coch, the Taff Trail and a zigzag climb up to Craig yr Allt in glorious winter sunshine.

Robins serenaded them at Caerphilly Mountain, while a herd of cows paddled in the mud looking very soulful and their return was made taking in the delights of the carved sculpture trail in Fforest Fawr, complete with wizards and dragons!

Geraint's second walk attracted the wind and rain and only two people as they trekked along the cliff top at Penarth, as what was predicted to be a leisurely simple local stroll turned into a battle against the elements.

Following the Wales Coast Path, some shelter was gained from hedges above the grey and choppy Bristol Channel and as the showers grew heavier, the trio turned inland at Lavernock Point, making their way along Fort Road to reach Cosmeston Country Park which was almost deserted.

Their return was made up the old disused Taff Vale railway track back to Penarth cliff top for a steaming cuppa before the journey home.

After Christmas on a very breezy but dry morning, only two walkers ventured out to join Joy with dogs Bracken and Bronte at Cold Knap. Heading uphill the trio made their way along the cliff to descend through Porthkerry Bay, followed by another climb to the Bulwarks.

From Porthkerry Caravan Park, they journeyed on to turn inland at Happy Valley and from Rhosoe Point development, crossing the railway line and reaching Rhosoe village, an energetic blustery wind faced them all the way back to Porthkerry Park.

Enjoying the shelter of the woods at Lovers' Lane and emerging onto Park Road, the very blustery return to the Knap was made via Romilly Park.

Hopefully, with the advent of 2014, the weather will eventually get better so here's to some good walking in the coming year.

On January 4, meet at 9am at the Barry Waterfront for a 10-mile moderate walk in the Vale of Glamorgan, taking in Beaupre Castle; contact Rachel on 01446 410545.

JOY STRANGWARD

The Friends and Neighbours enjoy festive fun

FRIENDS and Neighbours ended their very successful year with their Christmas party at Beryl Road Pioneer Hall, in Barry.

The party was made possible due to sponsorship by Barry Rotary Club, Aberthaw Power Station and Renishaw. Jane Hutt AM joined over 56 members at a festive four-course lunch followed by mince pies and a glass of wine.

The tables were tastefully decorated with crackers etc as well as the room decorated with trimmings.

Entertainment was provided by Barry Male Voice Choir, who sang carols and popular songs and the audience showed their appreciation.

Ms Hutt thanked Gay Fifield and the team for all their hard work. Alun Cairns MP later joined the party and praised the volunteers.

They were also entertained by Rev Malcolm Davies, with an amusing talk on hats he had collected from all over the world.

BTEC visit ON Thursday, December 12, a group of year-10 boys from the BTEC SWEET course went on a trip to Llandow for a session with a driving instructor.

They had an interesting morning with Ian Wilcox of 'I Will Drive School of Motoring' who discussed all aspects of running and driving a car.

He started by discussing the costs of running a car, up to £4,000 on average in the first year between the costs of lessons, insurance and buying a car. Upon hearing this, the boys were eager to start looking for a Saturday job!

Next came a lesson on car maintenance – checking the oil, water, tyres etc and also the responsibilities of being a driver.

Last, but not least, what everyone was looking forward to the most – driving the car on the track at Llandow air strip.

B-r-r-ro Morgannwg! AFTER school on Friday, December 13, a hardy group of over 50 staff and sixth formers braved the waters of Barry Island in aid of our chosen charity LATCH.

Thank you to Starbucks, Dunleavy Drive, for their contribution of coffee which was much appreciated!

Christmas Jumper Day ON Friday, December 13, Ysgol Gyfun Bro Morgannwg and Ysgol Gymraeg Nant Talwg both took part in the annual Save the Children 'Christmas Jumper Day'.

will be split between Save the Children and the Philippines disaster appeal.

National Children's Orchestra

IT is with great pleasure we announce that Anwen Fardy, year-9, has been selected for the National Children's Orchestra of Great Britain 2014, the second year running she has been chosen.

Anwen was also successful in the recent regional Rotary Young Musician competition and will now go on to the South Wales round in March. Da iawn Anwen.

Group sees church marvels being restored

BETWEEN Christmas and New Year in 1992, St Donats Church was the scene of a crime which caught the imagination of the media, and was reported in the national press.

Three oil paintings on oak panels, forming a triptych portraying three generations of the Stradling family of St Donats Castle, with some of their history, and commissioned by the youngest of them in 1560, were stolen and a fire started. The triptych had hung in the church for hundreds of years.

Specialist police and a forensic team were quickly alerted, and the paintings were located in Cardiff under a mattress, obviously awaiting transfer. The paintings then went to the National Museum and were later on display, but were seen to deteriorate out of the very damp vestry atmosphere.

This autumn the Rector was informed that the museum had received a grant from the Pilgrim Trust to restore them, and conservator Charles Reed would be working on them two days a week, under the supervision of Adam Webster, head of the art conservation department.

Some members of St Donats' congregation were invited to see the progress, and a group were treated to a fascinating insight into the work in progress.

Charles explained that Protestant Tudor portraits were intended to show power and stability, hence the ancestry, the coats of arms, the colours and symbols used and the inscriptions in English so that everyone would understand them.

Work has included X-rays to show the underlying structure and ultra-violet scans of the paint work.

Some renovation work was carried out in the 19th century, and much of this was being removed and modern techniques being applied.

Two and a half panels have been stripped of layers of varnish, and it was interesting to see the contrast in the third panel.

The group were able to sit close to the paintings and see the wonderful brushwork and detail being revealed; for example, the embroidery on Lady Agnes's sleeve and armour in the centre painting.

The visit was thrilling, and the staff gave the group a wonderful presentation. Mr Reed will give a public talk when the work is completed in September.

St Donats has life-sized photos of the paintings on display which are one feature of this beautiful Grade 1 church.

PAST AND PRESENT PUPILS LINE UP TO SAY FAREWELL TO RETIRING HEADTEACHER...

AMONG the many celebrations, at All Saints Church in Wales Primary School at the end of term, were Crazy Christmas Jumper Day, which raised money for Save the Children.

There was also a visit from Father Christmas, who with his helpers, Andrea and Liz, visited every class to distributing gifts throughout the school.

The Chirstingle Eucharist, however, held a big surprise for retiring Headteacher Richard Ware. Attended by many special guests, including family, friends, parents, governors and colleagues, past and present, it was a massive tribute to his achievements as Headteacher and his many years of dedication to Vale rugby.

Pupils past and present spoke of his influence and encouragement during their years at All Saints.

Retired Rector and former chairman of governors, Canon John Oeppen and present Rector and chairman of governors, Canon Adrian Berry, each spoke of their involvement with the school over many years and emphasised the dedication and commitment shown by Richard since his appointment in 1991.

Year-6 pupils wrote poetry in his honour and led the Eucharist at the end of the service, which had been brilliantly organised by year-6 teacher and past pupil, James Ball.

Richard was presented with an impressive array of gardening equipment by the pupils, and also a gift from the governors.

The term ended with a big staff party, where Richard received cards, gifts and good wishes from his colleagues.

He warmly thanked everyone for the love and support he had received during his time as Headteacher, and he wished Miss Clare Lewis every success as the new Head. NM

STUDENTS and their families joined staff and governors for Barry Comprehensive School's annual Christmas carol service at St Mary's Church, Holton Road last week.

The large congregation were treated to a selection of traditional and modern hymns, songs and music, all performed to the music department's high standard. Students and teachers also gave traditional readings during the service.

We would like to thank everyone who made this very enjoyable festive celebration possible.

Then we had a surprise performance from the in-house performers of 'What Did the Fox Say?'. This brought the house down again.

A huge thank you to Andrew Jones (Shelter Cymru) and to Sean Mayor, who organised the whole event. As a school, we are keen to continue to support Shelter Cymru in its commitment to keeping people in their homes.

Orchard House enjoys carols with local groups

MEMBERS of the Rotary Club of Barry and Inner Wheel came together on the evening of December 17, for a carol service with the residents of Orchard House, off Colcot Road, Barry.

Rotary Club president-elect, Mr. Robin Pitcher, welcomed everyone on this special evening.

After the opening carol, 'Hark the Herald Angels Sing', Rotarian Mike Righton read a few verses from the Bible.

Pianist for the evening was Rotarian Meirion Evans who had also prepared the evening's programme.

Other carols included 'Once in Royal David's City', 'It Came Upon the Midnight Clear', 'Silent Night', and 'O Little Town of Bethlehem.'

These were interspersed with two humorous items read by Inner Wheel members Mrs Eryl Evans and Mrs

Beth Longley, and a musical contribution from Katy Brownjohn and her friend Lily.

Father Christmas also made a surprise appearance as everyone sang 'Jingle Bells!' After the final carol, 'Hark the Herald Angels Sing,' president elect Robin thanked the residents and staff of Orchard House for such a warm welcome and wished everyone a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Members of the Rotary Club of Barry are part of an international organization with one million members worldwide, forming a global network of business, professional and community volunteers.

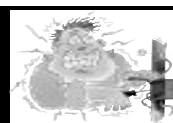

The Rotary Club of Barry meets weekly in the Mount Sorrel Hotel on Thursdays (6pm for 6.30pm). If you would like further information, please contact Peter Battle on 01446 710204, or visit www.ribi.org

CADETS HEAD FOR THE BRIGHT LIGHTS... London, here we come!

RIGHT:
The Cadets have had a busy end to 2013!

WHAT a fantastic end to the year for 2117 (Kenfig Hill) Squadron RAF Air Cadets!

At the beginning of December in the capable hands of Flt Sgt (ATC) Kevin Gould and Sgt (ATC) Richard Peckham, cadets from Kenfig Hill, Aberkenfig and Porthcawl went on a nine-day educational visit to London.

There was an extra pair of helping hands this year as Mrs Gould, who has recently joined the civilian committee, accompanied the group.

While staying at RAF Northolt, they ventured into London on several visits.

They thoroughly enjoyed the week, visiting the Imperial War Museum, Chelsea Pensioners' gardens, and war memorials in and around London; Jewel Tower, Science Museum, and National Army Museum.

While visiting the Queen's Colour Squadron, they were taught some drill movements, which is always an asset.

They also visited the Imperial War Museum, Duxford, which houses one of the finest collections of tanks, military vehicles and large exhibits in the country.

A lot of walking was involved and on one day the party walked around Hyde Park and looked at some of the memorials before going to Piccadilly Circus and then back to Nelson's Column.

With the help of Madeleine Moon MP, the cadets visited No 10 Downing Street and the Houses of Parliament where they had a full tour of both Houses with a talk on how Parliament works, and also got to stand where the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition stand during Prime Minister's Questions!

Staff and cadets from Kenfig Hill, Aberkenfig and Porthcawl, Wick Van Hire, Cowbridge ATC, Mrs Madeleine Moon MP – and, most of all, the people in the service and civilians who work at RAF Northolt who took time to look after the party while they were in London. LT

CADS CHAIRMAN STEPPING DOWN

RIGHT:
Kay, Gerda and The Snow Queen.

LONG-STANDING chairman of Cowbridge's dramatic society – Coun Peter Knapp – has announced that he will be standing down, following his elevation to Mayor-designate of Cowbridge with Llanblethian Council.

Peter said: "I am confident that the society will remain in good hands and we have lined up some great shows for 2014, including the comedies God of Carnage and The 39 Steps, which are described in a new booklet entitled 'What's On' at CADS, available from the Library in Old Hall Gardens.

"First, though, we are fortunate to have the Rain or Shine Theatre Company returning to Cowbridge on January 9 with their touring production of The Snow Queen, which I am sure will be a great show and enjoyed by all ages between 6 and 106.

"This is a new adaptation by award-winning director James Reynard of the classic Hans Andersen tale of good triumphing over evil in a snowy land. Tickets are available from WG Davies in the High Street, or by phoning 01446 773874.

"The show (one night only) which has been touring to excellent reviews commences at 7pm in the Market Theatre (off the Butts) Cowbridge."

Previous visits of Rain or Shine to Cowbridge have been dogged by snow, ice or monsoon rains but this time the Snow Queen herself has promised all will be well with the weather – subject to change of course...

Maesteg Mayor dives into the icy waters – all for charity!

Coun Ross Thomas, the Mayor of Maesteg, took part in the Porthcawl Christmas Day swim – wearing a 1920s traditional bathing costume! He told THE GEM: "With the help of my charity committee (above), we raised around £1,800 for Maesteg Community Day Hospital and the Maesteg 3rd Scouts Group.

Seasonal action for Farmers!

THE Christmas meeting of the Glamorgan Farmers' Golf Society held recently at RAF St Athan Golf Club attracted 36 competitors, all competing for the usual seasonal prizes and also the opportunity to return home with the RAF Shield which the winning member retains for the next 12 months.

Prior to arriving at the first tee the members were treated to a delightful drop of Irish Whiskey and home-made shortbread biscuits which Mrs Leslie Thomas, wife of society captain Gwyn Thomas, provided.

This very generous seasonal treat was much appreciated and set the tone for what proved to be a most enjoyable event.

In a closely contested competition the final outcome was decided with Aubrey Bowen having a better back nine than Clive Thomas.

Standing on the 16th tee Clive had a commanding six point lead over his nearest rivals, but a disastrous finish by Clive who only scored one point on the last three holes proved costly.

Both Clive and Aubrey finished with 32 stableford points with Aubrey having one more point on the back nine than Clive.

In third place was Tony McCarthy with 31 points followed by Geraint Davies who scored 30 points. Llancclellan farmer David Williams, making an extremely quick return to action after being hospitalised recently as a result of losing an argument with a tree, finished in fifth place also with 30 points.

Nearest the pin on the par three holes were Martin David, Andrew Thomas, Clive Thomas and also Mike Lee, whose round was interrupted when a deflated tyre on a buggy he was sharing with Lyn Thomas attracted a few seasonal comments!

Dan Jarvis, not for the first time, hit the longest drive on the selected hole to win the Bear Hotel, Cowbridge sponsored prize.

Martin Edwards, enjoying a rare Thursday off from exercising hounds, correctly guessed 31 balls would fail to return home to collect the premier Turf sponsored bottle of whiskey raising £70 in the process for the Llantwit Major Lifeguards.

The society's next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, January 30 at Whitchurch Golf Club, Cardiff and will be sponsored by Llanharan Concrete Company Ltd.

The captain and committee members of The Glamorgan Farmers' Golf Society wish fellow golfers and readers of this column a very happy New Year. TMcC

COWBRIDGE COMPREHENSIVE SPORTS ROUND-UP

Treble glory for 5x60 badminton!

AFTER storming to victory in the Badminton key stage 4 competition, it was the turn of the junior boys' team to take centre stage.

The venue once again was Cogan Leisure Centre in Penarth and although the journey there took longer than expected, this wasn't enough to take focus off the job in hand.

The team of Will Stewart, Evan Thomas, Harry Donnithorne and Michael Cox were ready to bring the silverware home.

First opponents for Cowbridge were Barry Comprehensive who provided plenty of passion. Will and Evan comfortably won their singles matches, with Harry and Michael following up with calm and collected triumph in their doubles.

The final doubles matches saw Will paired with Harry and Michael paired with Evan, with both partnerships easing to comfortable wins to make the overall match score 5-0.

This trend continued in games against Llantwit Major, Stanwell, Bro Morgannwg and St Richard Gwyn, with Cowbridge comfortably topping the round robin group.

In second place were Stanwell, who would be Cowbridge's opponents in the final. Will Stewart and Evan Thomas got the team off to the perfect start with convincing wins in the singles.

Nerves got the better of Michael and Harry, who unfortunately lost a tight doubles game, to make the score 2-1, going into the final two matches.

Victories in the concluding matches made the final score 4-1 and Cowbridge were proud to regain the trophy they lost to their opponents last year.

After last year's team won the national 5x60 badminton competition, the junior girls team of Kate Workman, Freya Johnson, Rhian Crossman and Abby Johnson had a great deal to live up to this time round. However, they arrived at the venue confident, calm and ready for action.

Their first opponents were St Richard Gwyn, who have a strong reputation for producing talented badminton players.

On this occasion Cowbridge were too strong and they triumphed 4-1.

Second up were Llantwit Major who brought a youthful side to the tournament. The difference in age groups showed as Cowbridge comfortably achieved victory 5-0.

The final group game was against Stanwell who beat the senior girls in the final of the key stage 4 competition.

However, this time round the Cowbridge team, full of confidence, ran out 5-0 winners, retaining the trophy.

Three out of the four teams entered now move into the south east region tournament, being held during the spring term.

Expectations are high but all three teams will need to move up a gear to beat the incoming teams from Cardiff, Bridgend, RCT and Merthyr.

After an unsuccessful venture to the national finals last year, the boys' badminton team of Sam Stewart, Matthew Reynolds, Finn Murphy and Josh Evans have returned to competition with devastating effect, determined to right the wrongs of the previous campaign.

The first port of call was the Vale of Glamorgan 5x60 tournament and having won the competition for the previous two years, the biggest threat to a third straight title must have been complacency.

The first opponents were a competitive St Cyres outfit, sporting new faces and a determination not seen in previous years.

After a difficult start, Sam Stewart's quality shone through and he delivered the first of a 4-1 team win, with Josh Evans combining passion and skill to win his two matches.

Next up were a very competitive Stanwell team, who are widely renowned for their proficiency with a racket. However, on this day, those abilities fell well short of the standards set by a resolute and unwavering Cowbridge team.

Having blown away the cobwebs against St Cyres, the flair and elegance of Matthew Reynolds combined with the dogged determination of Finn Murphy and Josh Evans resulted in a resounding 5-0 victory.

Last up during the group stage was a youthful and inexperienced Llantwit team, who although looked out of their depth, put in a gritty and heroic performance to try and deny a rampaging Cowbridge side.

Unfortunately for Llantwit, Cowbridge were in an unforgiving mood and again steam-rolled their opponents on the way to the final with another 5-0 win.

The final brought Cowbridge head to head with St Richard Gwyn who also comfortably won their group, albeit a slightly easier task.

The gulf in class was obvious from the outset with Sam Stewart and Matthew Reynolds securing victory in a convincing manner.

Finn and Josh followed this up with another win in the doubles and with a 3-0 lead the squad eased to the title, winning the last two doubles matches.

The team now advance to the south east competition at Cogan Leisure Centre in Penarth, hoping to emulate last year's championship winning performance. On this performance their chances of doing that look good.

FOOTBALL
The Year 7 football team played Llanishen High School on Thursday, December 5, in the semi-final of the Cardiff and Vale regional qualifier for the Welsh Cup.

Victory and a place in the final would assure them of qualification.

The conditions for the game were not ideal, with the strong winds making every facet of the game difficult.

With Cowbridge's back to the wind in the first half, they were the stronger; with Llanishen's back to the wind in the second half, they were the stronger. Both teams struggled to get the ball under control, and really threaten the goalkeepers.

With the scores level five minutes before time, the game had 'penalties' written all over it. That was until Cowbridge scrambled the ball clear to Edward Thomas, who sprinted up the wing with his lightning pace.

His cross was an excellent one, but was partially dealt with by a Llanishen defender. The ball then dropped to Bryn Lloyd, who fired a shot towards the Llanishen goal, only for the ball to again be blocked by a defender.

In pinball fashion, the ball then rebounded off the defender, and curved around the outside of the goalkeeper and into the back of the net. A lucky goal, but at this stage of the game, we would take it.

Two minutes were left on the clock, and Cowbridge held strong, with Jake Thomas controlling the centre of the park, and Matthew Dewhurst marshalling his defensive line extremely effectively.

Well done Year 7. In conditions like that, it is never easy to play the standard of football we are used to playing, but you adapted your game, never gave up, and ultimately came away with the win. Well done again, and now the Welsh Cup is calling!

Player of the match: Jake Thomas and Matthew Dewhurst.

ROWING
Tom Jose and Selina Radcliffe (both year 9) represented Cowbridge

Comprehensive at the Welsh Schools Indoor Rowing Championships on December 6, held at Sophia Gardens in Cardiff.

There were hundreds of competitors from all over Wales along with a few English schools teams as well. Both Tom and Selina came fourth in their age groups, beating off stiff competition from many more experienced rowers.

They both then took part in the British Indoor Rowing Championships the following day representing their rowing club (CVSRA - Cardiff and Vale Schools Rowing Academy).

It was another day of stiff competition but Tom won silver and Selina came eighth. It was the first time they had competed in the indoor championships and so were very pleased with their results.

NETBALL
Year 8 and 9 played St

Richard Gwyn.

Despite being a very windy and cold afternoon, all girls played exceptionally well. The year 9s won 11-1, and the year 8s won 4-1.

Player of the match: year 9 - Annabelle Hegarty, year 8 - Mali Howell.

HOCKEY

The under-16 hockey team played against Brynteg.

Cowbridge won 3-0 with goals being scored by Sian Smith, Jemma Viney and Rosa Hartmann. Player of the match was Genevieve Kirk.

Team: Hannah Lee, Megan Duncombe, Laurie Thomas, Marne Adams, Hannah Lister-Sims, Hannah Clarke, Ellie Eddy-Williams, Megan McNamee, Evie Williams, Jemma Viney, Rosa Hartmann, Sian Smith and Genevieve Kirk.

Badminton's talent on show

THE annual 5x60 badminton tournament was once again held at Cogan Leisure Centre in Penarth.

Fierce rivalries were destined to be resumed during this year's competition with Stanwell School in particular renowned for their aptitude with a racket.

Interesting to see was the depth of talent being turned out by the Vale schools, with many players performing to a very high standard and this made for very competitive tournaments at both age groups.

In the 5 x 60 events, each team of four players played two singles matches and three doubles matches, in a best of five contests.

In a pulsating and exhilarating competition the runners up from the year 7 and 8 girls' competition were St Richard Gwyn and the winning team were from Cowbridge.

In the year 7 and 8 boys' competition, the team from Stanwell took the runner up position with Cowbridge comfortably taking the top prize.

In the year 9 and 10 girls competition the runners up were Cowbridge with Stanwell deservedly taking first place.

The boys' competition was very hard fought, but again Cowbridge took first place with a very spirited St Richard Gwyn side in second.

The winners of each competition will now go through to play in the regional event where they will face stiff competition from teams from Methyr, Cardiff and RCT.

A special mention should be made for the 10 volunteers from Cardiff and Vale College who umpired the competition and ensured it ran smoothly from the outset.

Season ends at Kart club

LLANDOW Kart Club brought the curtain down on its 2013 season with the traditional Celtic Challenge finale on the opening weekend of December.

Run to the 'alternate' format of timed qualifying, heat, pre-final and final, the event is designed to bring a fun end to a hard year of racing, while providing an opportunity for the winners to leave with the recognised 'CC' plate, which is retained for the following year.

Two hardy Bambinos came out to play at the event, with Ella Stevens and Nathan Browning both achieving another gold award for their efforts on a cold and damp track.

Despite it being the 'end of term', the Cadet field still produced the biggest turn-out, with 20 karts taking to the track across three classes. New club champion Ethan Ling headed up the Honda contingent, but was denied another title as Stuart Ferguson emerged as the one to beat, topping all four sessions to take a clean sweep.

Ling was second fastest in qualifying, but had to settle for third place in each of the three races, as Oscar Ferguson took second spot in both the heat and pre-qualifying, and Joshua Martin did likewise in the final, after Ferguson ran into misfortune.

Without new champion Tom Rawlings, who took the opportunity to step up to another class in preparation for 2014, the Comer class was won by Connor Kearney, who came good in the races after lagging a little behind his rivals in the timed session.

Max Fenlon had been quickest in qualifying, but did not make the top three overall, as Kieran Clarke and Thomas Nippers followed Kearney home.

The IAME class featured just two runners, with Shay Keough getting the better of Ethan Rees.

and Kristian Prosser wasted little time in taking control, topping each of the day's four sessions, ahead of Tom Ford and Patrick Hill.

As he had in the final round of the summer championship, Ford doubled up with appearances in Junior Rotax, where he again locked horns with former Honda rival Thomas Croydon.

The pair had to settle for battling over third and fourth places, however, as the more experienced Rob Ellis and Ceran Sokhi - stepping up from Minimax - set the pace. Ellis, as befits the role of club champion, came out on top each time, winning each race with an increased margin.

With Sokhi stepping up and Jodie Handford missing, Joe Pritchard was the lone Minimax entrant, but raced hard at the back of the Junior Rotax grid.

The eight-man Junior TKM field was led throughout by Ryan Edwards, despite the best efforts of old rivals Scott Morris and Matthew Ayres, who filled the podium positions in each session. Class debutant Rawlings made an immediate impact, qualifying fifth fastest and racing hard to eventually claim fourth in the main event, beating 2013 Welsh and club champion Yousuf Ashraf in the process.

After a tough year, where a dearth of entries saw the class cancelled on more than a couple of occasions, Senior Honda enjoyed a return to double figures for the season finale, with no fewer than 12 karts on track.

The numbers were swelled by the arrival of Stevens and Nardone from the junior ranks, as well as the return of veterans Chris Lipscomb, Nick Turley and Nicholas Rees and a seasonal debut for Roberto Nardone.

Stevens dared to beat Lipscomb and challenge senior champion Paul Saunders in qualifying, and then proved that his form was for real by winning the pre-final, but had to give best to heat winner Turley when it mattered most. Despite that, the youngster still left with some silverware, while Monty Gorringer beat Saunders to the final step of the podium.

The Honda Heavyweight class returned courtesy of Hugh Jones, but there was to be no repeat of his October heroics - where he won outright - as he finished seventh overall.

Senior Rotax remained in double figures after another strong season, and Daryl Henderson picked up from where he had left off in November's championship finale, winning all three races after topping qualifying.

James Johnson proved to be the biggest thorn in Henderson's side, taking second spot in each session, and, when Steven Handford failed to start the pre-final, it opened the door for Zach Jones to establish himself as number three for the rest of the day.

The young coaches with Rhys Williams.

YOUNG COACHES ARE LEARNING THE ROPES

THE Vale Council has launched an Olympic legacy programme, entitled Coaches of the Future, to help inspire a generation and give young people the opportunity to develop an involvement in sports leadership and coaching.

The scheme was launched at the Civic Offices in Barry with 19 individuals attending (age 16-18) from around the Vale.

The guest speaker was Great Britain and Wales athlete Rhys Williams, who gave an insight into how invaluable coaches were in his success on the athletics track.

The coaches had already taken part in an intensive week of training during October half term. They completed their Level 2 in community sports leadership, first aid, netball leaders, badminton leaders and Dragon multi-skills training course.

All 19 of the COTF will now be volunteering in their secondary school, local primary school or community sports club.

They will have further training in the near future and will complete their coach education Level 1 in their chosen sports between now and April 2014.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for leisure, parks, culture and sports development said: "The scheme provides an excellent opportunity for young people to get on the coaching ladder when they are young and to develop their knowledge of their sport to pass on to players and volunteers in the game."

"I have been a football coach for 40 years and I have enjoyed every moment of the experience of coaching and seeing the development and improvement of those I have worked with. I would encourage all young people to take the opportunities offered them and sign up today."

Peugeot's 2008 is an urban crossover

by TIM SAUNDERS

PEUGEOT calls its 2008 an urban crossover; a five-door estate that sits high off the road like a 4x4, but without the uneconomical permanent all-wheel-drive.

However, it's fitted with a grip control that features modes for mud, sand, snow and normal everyday driving, making it more agile than a standard car (watch the video at testdrives.biz).

This function provides much-needed traction to the front wheels when required.

It can also be cancelled at speeds of up to 30mph, giving the driver ultimate control.

I'm testing a 1.6 e-HDi Allure model, which is basically the mid-range offering. Standard features include 16" alloy wheels, power folding chrome door mirrors, rear parking aid, dark tinted rear windows, stainless steel front and rear scuff plates, cruise control, speed limiter, all-around electric windows and air conditioning.

Parkers, the used car experts say: "Skid plates front and rear supplement more aggressively-styled alloy wheels, either in 16 or 17-inch sizes, sitting beneath squared-off wheel arches."

"A kink in the roof above the rear door evokes memories of an early Land Rover Discovery, though it embellishes the space with chrome rather than glass. It's a material used throughout the car's exterior."

"That familiar, and slightly fussy, Peugeot family face is adorned with a bold grille outlined in the shiny metal, as are the roof rails, door bottoms and wing mirrors."

It makes for a rather glitzy ambience to what could otherwise be considered a slightly derivative design statement."

Over the course of our time together we head into the New Forest, Hampshire and on into Dorset and Wiltshire, which provides ideal terrain for testing its abilities.

The concept is simple; Peugeot has created a more robust estate car that embraces the challenges that the modern family will throw at it – a family like the Saunders clan, which decides to take a few days out and have a well-earned rest at Sandy Balls, the self-catering holiday park in the New Forest.

That means loading

everything but the kitchen sink and although the boot is not large enough to accommodate our tandem pram it does tackle the smaller single pushchair, a reasonably sized suitcase and of course eldest daughter Harriett's Trunki.

Fortunately, a Farad roofbox from roofcarriers.co.uk provides extra storage space, making for a more comfortable journey.

Otherwise everything else would have to go inside.

With comfortable leather trimmed seats and smatterings of metal trim throughout, the 2008 Allure feels well put together, if a little minimal in its interior design.

Its raised height gives an added sense of security, even if the diesel unit is at times sluggish, especially when pulling away.

In the depths of the countryside, grip control comes into its own where during heavy downpours, thick mud becomes an increasing problem.

A turn of the dial in the centre console and the driver can rest assured that traction is optimised in conditions of poor grip, giving increased control.

When an oncoming tractor forces a sudden stop and a hasty detour into an unwelcoming unmade lay-by, the Peugeot makes no complaints.

KENZIE IS AIMING FOR THE TOP OF INLINE HOCKEY!

SHEER hard work, dedication and natural ability in sport certainly paid off for 11 year old local youngster, Mackenzie Whilding; known as Kenzie to her friends.

Kenzie is a junior member of St Athan Golf Club but the sport she enjoys and excels at the most is inline hockey, a game she only decided to pursue in January 2013.

Kenzie plays for Cardiff Capitals and in the space of a year has already earned nationally recognised awards by the British Inline Puck Hockey Association (BIPHA).

These include the under-10s south Wales top goaltender, the national top goaltender, the national dream team goaltender and south Wales' top goaltender runner up in the under-12s team even though she was still only 10 at the time.

Kenzie has now achieved her ultimate dream; the only Welsh player selected to represent TEAM GB in the under-12s division for inline hockey being held in Los Angeles in June 2014.

In preparation for the tour, training schedules are to be held every couple of weeks in Rotherham, which means Kenzie will need to show exceptional commitment over the coming months and will be relying heavily on her parents, Sam and Keiran, to assist her with their time and the transportation to the organising training sessions.

Unfortunately the cost of the Los Angeles trip and the expense of additional equipment, etc, must all be self-funded therefore Kenzie would be delighted to hear from any company that would be able to assist with sponsorship or indeed any individuals who feel they would like to make a donation, however small.

Kenzie or her parents can be contacted on 01446 751105 and will happily answer any questions or provide further information as requested, alternatively they may be contacted by post at 3 Drake Close, St Athan, Vale of Glamorgan, CF62 4JF.

YOUNG GARETH 'CALLS THE HORSES'

GARETH TOPHAM (24) is the youngest and newest racecourse commentator in the country.

Gareth from the Fairwater area of Cardiff was born in St David's Hospital, Canton and was a pupil of Cantorian High School, before moving to Leeds to study sports journalism at university.

He said: "Sports journalism was the closest

ON AND OFF THE TURF with BRIAN LEE

course I could get so that I could become involved in horse-racing broadcasting."

Commentating is something Gareth wanted to do from the age of ten. He was attending primary school at Pentreban when he won a competition to appear on the children's channel Nickelodeon as a budding commentator. This involved him going to Taunton Races one afternoon and seeing what the job actually entailed.

An accomplished pianist, Gareth learned his trade commentating at point-to-points, harness race meetings and even at greyhound tracks. He also provided voiceovers for betting shops. And now he can be heard on racing channels such as Channel 4, Racing UK and ATR.

He told me: "It all really started when I used to watch racing on a Saturday afternoon in front of the television set with mum and dad. I enjoyed hearing the commentator say something and then hear how the crowd would react to what he said. I loved it and thought maybe one day I could do that. The rest as they say is history."

Gareth commentated at Chester earlier this year to a crowd of 24,000; when he said: "They're off" for the first race the roar from the stands was electrifying.

He said: "It was a hugely exciting day with many close finishes and my pulse was certainly racing."

He thanks fellow commentators Simon Holt, Darren Owen and Lee McKenzie for helping in his training, along with several other commentators.

Gareth is one of 16 commentators who travel the country 'calling the horses', as they say, at meetings big and small over the jumps or on the flat.

He drives hundreds of miles to some race meetings and he is such a gent that he astonishes me when he says his pet hate is cyclists, and admits to being "the world's most impatient and angry driver."

Having assisted Gareth at point-to-point meetings by giving him background information on some of the horses and riders, when standing alongside him from his commentary position, I know first hand how good he is at his job.

They say there is no such thing as a certainty in racing but as far as I am concerned, it is a dead cert that we will be hearing a lot more about this presentable young man in the future.

Hockey club play their annual 'Turkeys' game

PENARTH Hockey Club brought the curtain down on the first half of its 2013-14 season with the traditional 'turkeys' game between its senior and junior members at Barry Sports Centre.

Two sides, made up of players either side of the 30-year mark, were press-ganged into one further appearance after a hard-fought autumn league campaign, bribed by the promise of a liquid warm-up rather than the usual flexing and stretching.

With some old faces making a welcome return for the weekend, the line-ups – under the command of Jones and Grant respectively – featured a blend of players from the 1st, 2nd and veteran XIs, with Phil Lane bravely volunteering to umpire solo.

As has become the norm with turkeys games, players were given the opportunity to try out positions unfamiliar to them on a regular Saturday, and 25 minutes of goalless action highlighted just how out of their depth some were.

Although the seniors enjoyed their moments in front of goal, returnee keeper Ben Jewess was rarely called on to make a save while, at the other end, 1st XI shotstopper Mark Harris single-handedly kept his regular teammates at bay.

The deadlock was finally broken in scrappy fashion as 2nd XI keeper Calum Grant led from the front, bundling the ball across the line after another rearguard action from Harris ultimately came up short in the face of greater opposition forces.

The sides turned around just a goal apart, but the juniors emerged from the break determined to prove their superiority.

It didn't take long for the lead to double, as Sam Wooding – having not featured in the opening half – was left uncaged in the seniors' 25, and comfortably beat Harris in a one-on-one contest.

The seniors refused to buckle, and with Craig Llewellyn – who had clearly left his 'shooting boots' at home – drifting back to a more familiar sweeping role, the side enjoyed more opportunities in front of goal.

However, the older side could not find a way past Jewess, and fell further behind with a quarter of the game remaining as Chris Baker fired home from the right-side, Harris only aware of the jet-stream passing his facemask before the sound of ball on post signalled the third goal of the game.

It was shortly after this apparently decisive moment, and with time ticking down, that Lane invoked the 'next goal the winner' rule, giving the seniors added incentive to press forward.

Having spurned one chance to wrap the game up, when Jones missed from the penalty spot, age finally told over beauty when a quick ball from the back was worked into the juniors' 'D' and eventually forced home by Freddie Thomas to steal a famous victory.

Despite the obvious disappointment of seeing their hard work undone in such devastating fashion, the juniors sportingly provided the post-match refreshments, with copious – and welcome – lashings of homemade chilli on tap to accompany the traditional liquid refreshment at Penarth Athletic Club.

TEAMS:

Players young and old have a chance to lick their wounds for a few weeks before the veterans get things under way again with a mid-January fixture against Whitechurch.

League action resumes a week later, with the 1st XI hosting Wotton-under-Edge and the 2nd XI travelling west to take on bottom side Trinity St Davids.

Penarth Hockey Club always welcomes new, old and returning players, umpires, supporters, friends and helpers regardless of age and ability.

Training takes place on the artificial turf at Barry Sport Centre every Wednesday, with the juniors in action between 6-7pm and seniors between 7-8pm.

Further information can be obtained from club secretary Dave Stevens at: d_stevens81@hotmail.co.uk.

Barry RFC end year on a low note

BARRY RFC travelled up to Glyncoch with a depleted squad for their last game of the calendar year.

Coaches Darren Gibbons and Dai Griffith, and caretaker manager Ken Chow, were denied the services of several of their regular starters due to various reasons.

In light of this, Jordan Flynn and John Miles both made their first team debuts, while Glyn Jones played his first game for the club in a year. Hywel Jones returned at Number 8 to captain the side.

In cold, windy conditions, the game began at a ferocious pace. Glyncoch tried to assert their physicality in the tight, but the Barry defence was not found wanting despite the home side's attempts to intimidate.

The home outside-half was using his boot at every opportunity to pin Barry in their own 22, but despite their territorial advantage the away defence was watertight, marshalled superbly by Tanner, Jones and Scott.

With such physical exchanges it was no surprise when tempers flared, most notably from the Glyncoch bench, but also on the field where both sides saw red and it became 14-a-side for the rest of the match.

It was Barry who coped better with the disruption, as they regained lost territory via Einar Scott's boot at fly-half, but also some superb drives from the forwards.

From a well-worked move, Barry managed to create an overlap on the left, which saw Dave Provis feeding Ashley Adams out wide, who finished excellently for the first score of the match. Scott was unable to add the extras from out wide.

As the game wore on it became a contest of physicality of the forwards and it was clear that the game could be turned on a stroke of genius – or indiscipline.

Unfortunately for the away side it was the latter, as two yellow cards saw Barry reduced to twelve men briefly, and the home side took full advantage by scoring a push-over try. The difficult conversion was expertly kicked by their full back.

After being restored to 13 men, Barry pushed forward in an attempt to look for a way to wrestle back the lead. The opportunity came when the away side stretched the Glyncoch defence sufficiently for an infringement to occur, and Scott was on hand to add three points from the tee to give Barry a slender advantage.

The game ebbed and flowed and two more yellow cards – one for each side – followed, as the home side pressed for a score.

With huge territorial advantage towards the dying embers of the game, Glyncoch finally scored in the corner despite some heroic last ditch defending.

Barry rallied for the last few moments of the game but their efforts were ultimately in vain, going down 12-8.

While the result was perhaps disappointing, it was encouraging to see such a brave performance from a Barry side in difficult circumstances. With experienced players to return in the new year, it is impossible not to remain optimistic.

Both the 1st XV and 2nd XV will return to action against Tonyrefail at home on January 4.

Team: Ryan; A Adams, T Scott, Provis, Flynn; E Scott, Lee; Jennings, Evans, Hollister; Tanner, G Jones; J Adams, C Scott, H Jones (c); Replacements: Pirsio, Miles; Substitutes not used: Oaten, Hamonda. Man-of-the-match: C Scott. KC

Young bowlers are in action

On Saturday, December 22, the Sully juniors travelled to Llandrindod Wells to play in the Clubs Junior Four's.

They were drawn against a good Rhondda four but the team skipped by Rhys Phillips started positively and were soon 4-1 ahead after three ends, and with lead Joe Coles and second Jack Killin outplaying their opponents, the Sully boys went further ahead, and after seven ends were in front 10-1.

The Sully team were playing excellent bowls with third Louis Peters drawing some brilliant shots while Rhys Phillips played some telling bowls, turning one head over to make five shots.

In fairness the Rhondda bowlers were bowling some good woods, especially their skip who actually killed two ends and took the jack back when they were a number of shots down to make a count of three, but they were constantly under pressure and the game finally ended with Sully making two shots on the last end to secure a 17-4 win.

They have now qualified for the finals to be played at Newport on February 16; also Coles, Peters and Phillips are playing in the Junior Triples Finals to be played on February 8 at the Rhondda Indoor Bowling Club.

WIBA COMPETITIONS

A number of the Welsh National Indoor Bowling Association competitions are now in the latter stages with Sully Bowlers having an interest.

In the Open Singles Chris Ackland has won his way through to the quarter finals to be played at Newport IBC on Saturday, January 4 at 4pm, beating the legendary John Price on the way, and in the Senior Four's, the rink of G Cogbill, M Doyle, D Snelling and K McLeod have reached the semi finals, also to be played at the same venue starting at 12 noon.

In other competitions G White & R Cowling have progressed to the second round of the Senior Pairs, while in the Over-50 Triples, to be played by January 12, M Davies, R Richards and D Mason, and P Taylor, P Critcher and C Ackland are the Sully trios.

Carl Best will represent Sully at Bodolwyddan in the Champion of Champions on January 25/26.

The National Clubs Championship recommences on January 11 with a game away to league leaders Blaenau Gwent, where the Sully team will be trying to rediscover their form against formidable opponents.

The award winners.

On Friday, December 20, the Cadoston Schools of Tae Kwon Do held its annual awards presentation and disco at the Market Street club.

The school had an extremely successful year and can boast of five Word Champions holding nine world titles between them, six European Champions holding 15 titles between them and seven British Champions holding eight titles between them. The night was a great success with parents and students alike all enjoying themselves.

The first award was best beginner and it went to Katie Watkins; the most potential trophy was awarded to Lucia Cunningham, most improved female and male awards went to Jessie Blackley and Jake Quigley, who have both worked hard at their basic techniques showing that they have a good future within the martial art of Tae Kwon Do.

Jake Quigley was also presented with the WOMAA Wales Charles Ames Memorial shield from Master Mal Johns. The perseverance male and female awards went to Maddison Allen and Cody Jacobsen; both students never give up, always trying their hardest to achieve their goal. The indomitable spirit award went to Thomas Haysham, who was unable to attend due to an accident, so his sister Shannon picked up the award on his behalf. The special achievement award went to Bradley Halford; Bradley is one of a few students who achieved their third degree.

Two special awards are given out in memory of Charles Ames and Michael Conibear. The very popular Lucy Newman was the recipient of the Michael Conibear (star student award) which was donated to the club by Michael's mother, while Matthew Bennett was presented with the Charles Ames memorial shield by Alyson Williams.

Student of the year went to Anita Sheppard, for her all round ability hard work and dedication to the art of Tae Kwon Do.
